Charles Cowling, Managing Director of JLT Pension Capital Strategies comments:

"It continues to be a very difficult time for companies and their pension schemes – particularly where an actuarial valuation is now due. In truth, the accounting numbers play down how bad the position really is. We have now had the promised statement from the Pensions Regulator on how it expects trustees to react to current market conditions when negotiating funding agreements or recovery plans on the back of actuarial valuations – and it provides little or no respite for companies with large legacy DB pension schemes. With no sign that quantitative easing is about to be reduced and the OECD even encouraging more quantitative easing, the pain this is causing pension schemes (by forcing up liability values) looks set to continue for some time yet."
